

Being a Teen – Now and in the Future

Next year there will be an international youth conference in Madrid. Representatives from a number of countries will discuss different things that are important to young people.

The conference members need a lot of input. You are therefore invited to write a text to help and inspire them.

Write a text and include these three parts:

- In a short introduction, describe what it is like to be a teen where you live.
- Suggest two or three issues that the youth conference should focus on. Explain and discuss why these things are important for young people today.
- Discuss how life as a teenager may change in the future.

Maybe the ideas below can inspire you.

culture

health

music

economy

human rights

politics

education

the Internet

religion

environment

job

social media

friendship

lifestyles

sports

Plan your writing and make sure that you have time to write about all three parts.
You should write between 250 and 500 words.
